Atom Theft Spurs War on Red Spies

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 11—Photographic negatives of atomic bomb machinery were the less important of the documents stolen from the Los Alamos plant.

New Atom Bullets Aid In Cancer Fight

By G. B. LAL
Science Editor, the American Weekly
NEW YORK, July 11—A newer atomic energy era has dawned today. America's nuclear scientists—who have brought atomic energy out of the atom's nucleus (heart) in a practical way—have taken a major step forward since they gave the world-shaking atom bomb.

At the University of California's radiation laboratory, on top of the Berkeley Hill, under the leadership of Prof. Ernest O. Lawrence, Nobel prize winner, his colleagues, Drs. G. T. Seaborg, Isadore Perlman, and others, have developed a new kind of atomic bombardment. The scientists have attacked the atom with sub-atomic bullets produced by the world's most powerful cyclotron, the nearly 5000 ton (184-inch) atom whirling and smashing machine, and the results have been amazing, although not unexpected by top-notch scientists. From the use of sub-atomic bullets of 20 to 40 million electron-volt energies (these are deutron particles—cores of heavy hydrogen, and alpha or helium atom cores) generated by the highest power order cyclotron, scientists have advanced to producing bullets of 200 to 400 million volt energies.

With 10 times more energetic atomic artillery, the conquest of the atom's hidden energy, locked up in the nuclear center, has progressed 10 times faster, and deeper. The effect of this is seen in two ways: A whole crowd of neutrons and protons of which the atom is built) pour out; also, a whole series of new elements are formed.

When the atoms of arsenic (the poisonous mineral) were bombarded with 200,000,000-volt deutron (heavy hydrogen) particles, there came out of these attacked, excited atoms newly created atoms of such elements as manganese, iron, cobalt, nickel, copper, zinc and so forth, although the detection of each element is not yet decisive.

Such wholesale transmutation of one element into other elements has not been known before; it is as though the attacked atom gave birth to multiple babies.

The elements which are thus "created, born in the cyclotron, are radio-active; that is, unlike ordinary stable elements, they give out radiations as does radium. This makes them of utmost importance. For example, by bombardment of copper a new radio-isotope of iron (atomic weight 52, compared with ordinary iron of weight 54) was generated.

In medicine—diagnosis and treatment of tumors and cancer diseases, such as cancer, these radiating substances are of immense use. Industrial research is aided enormously by them.

By the super-energetic bombardment 100 or more new radiating elements (radioactive isotopes), such as no other cyclotrons or even the atomic energy piles can generate, will become available.

The usual number of sub-atomic particles (neutrons, pro-tons and helium cores of alpha particles) obtained by bombardment of atoms are two to three; by the new atomic bombardment 22 or even 30 such particles are released from the nucleus. Whether such abundant neutrons will ever be made to start a chain reaction, the basis of the atom bomb reaction, no one yet knows. But the scientists are dreaming big dreams.

Dr. Wilson M. Powell, another of three Berkeley scientists, completely smashed the oxygen atomic nucleus, leaving nothing but neutrons, protons and deuterons, thus causing the sort of atomic disintegration which occurs only in cosmic ray reactions with the molecules of the air. A new atomic age has come.

These researches have been sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Egypt Asks UN To Oust British

LAKE SUCCESS, July 11 (AP)—Egypt filed a complaint with the United Nations Security Council today against the continued presence of British troops on Egyptian soil.

GUARDS ATOMIC SECRETS
—Thirty-year-old T. O. Jones, former railroad freight agent, has been named in congressional investigations as the boss of atomic bomb security measures with a yearly salary of $8719.50. Only previous experience he has had, he told investigators, was four years experience with Army counter-intelligence section.

The two GI sergeants took out papers containing descriptive matter much more dangerous to the security of the United States if they fell into the hands of an efficient alien spy ring.

That was learned today as the Atomic Energy Commission and other security agencies put every available facility into the effort to thwart Russian spies known to be working 24 hours a day to obtain the secret of the world's most destructive weapon.

The joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee refused after a long session to make public the names of the two soldiers who took the valuable secrets with them when they were discharged from the Army early in 1946.

Despite the promise of Dept. of Justice officials that the two soldiers would be prosecuted, a Senate member of the Atomic Energy Commission expressed doubt that such action would be taken.

"I doubt it very much. The only way they could be tried would be in a civil court and the documents would have to become part of the public record. They are of such a nature that the government cannot permit this."

Senators discussed the wisdom of writing a new law that would enable government or Army courts to try a man for treason without having to openly reveal security secrets.

Chairman Hickenlooper announced that the Los Alamos theft has developed into such vital importance that committee members had been instructed not to discuss it in any way.

He reiterated the documents the soldiers possessed had been recovered.

He made no effort, however, to minimize the gravity of the theft, as he did the day before when he said it amounted to little more than the "prank of souvenir hunters."

There has been no proof no one else had access to the documents during the 13 months the soldiers retained uncontrolled possession, nor whether photostatic copies were made. One of the soldiers was a professional photographer.

He admitted that the two men actually had access to the most confidential information in the plant where the bomb is assembled and made ready for firing.

"We know that a powerful spy ring is operating in this country and will stop at nothing. They are actually on 24-hour duty. Security is never airtight, but everything possible is being done to make it nearly so."

In the House Dewey Short, influential member of the Armed Services Committee was bitterly critical of Army security, as the Army was in charge at the time the secrets were stolen.

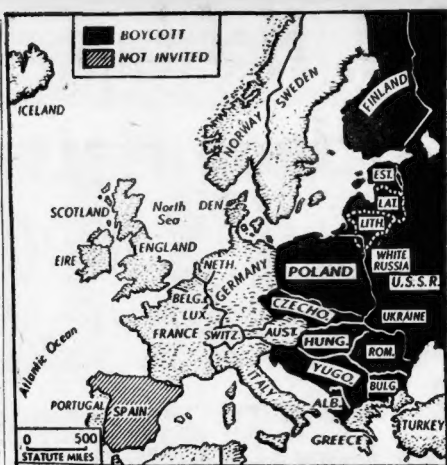

"I want to know who was asleep at the switch," he declared.

Split Europe Red Aim, Czechs Prove

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
WASHINGTON, July 11 (INS)—Czechoslovakia's decision to shun the Paris talks on European reconstruction convinced American officials today that Russia is determined to push the breach with western powers regardless of the ultimate consequences.

As a result of the Czech decision, U. S. officials reached the following conclusions:

1—Russia is determined to build up an economic bloc of her own which is likely to bar the markets of much of Europe to the western powers, with resultant serious injury to their economy.

2—The effort will be carried as far as possible—to the extent of engulfing all of continental Europe.

3—As soon as this has been accomplished, similar efforts will be directed toward the East where the field for Communism may be more fertile than in western Europe.

These considerations have been uppermost in the minds of U. S. officials for months. They were prime considerations which induced the Greek-Turkish aid program and the Truman doctrine of stopping totalitarian regimes from being imposed on democratic peoples.

By eliminating Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland from the Marshall plan, Russia removes a large chunk of Europe's economy from the well-geared prewar machine.

All five nations have substantial agricultural areas.

Finns Join Czechs In Spurning Bid

By LEON PEARSON

PARIS, July 11 (INS)—Soviet efforts to hamstring the Paris parity on the Marshall-aid program for Europe today brought a renunciation by Czechoslovakia of its former decision to attend and a rejection by Finland of the joint British-French invitation.

The Finnish rejection in the wake of Czechoslovakia's turn-about was reported by the Moscow radio.

In all 14 nations have accepted the invitation, meaning that 16 countries will take part in the Paris conference convening tomorrow.

Those who will be represented by delegates included the inviting powers and Italy, Eire, Iceland, Austria, Denmark, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Greece, Turkey, Sweden, Switzerland, Portugal and Norway.

Nations declining at the behest of the Kremlin include Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary, Albania and Yugoslavia.

Bus Drivers' Strike Ties 18 Communities

Forty-two drivers of the Lovell Bus Lines walked off the job today in a fight for better wages and working conditions, crippling passenger transportation between numerous Worcester and Middlesex County communities.

The drivers are demanding an increase in their hourly pay rate of from $1.04 to $1.35.

The American Ass'n of Street and Electric and Motor Coach Employees of America, representing the strikers, has proposed submitting the dispute to the State board. The bus line contends the contract with the union provides for arbitration of disputes by a three-man board.

Among communities served by the struck bus line are Waltham, Weston, Weyland, Sudbury, Watertown, Waverly, Belmont, Arlington, Lexington, Concord, Acton, Maynard, Stow, Hudson, Berlin, Clinton, Lancaster and Leominster.

2 Women Fall From Windows

A pretty, 23-year-old Cambridge secretary plunged from a fourth-floor window of a South End hotel today, miraculously escaping death when a wire-meshed marquee cushioned her fall.

Miss Helen Farina of Rindge ave., North Cambridge, was found unconscious on the marquee of the Berkeley Hotel by a cab driver, who heard a scream and saw the girl's form come hurtling down.

The cab driver, unidentified, called police and firemen, who lifted the injured victim through a window and administered first aid en route to City Hospital.

Doctors there said she had a fair chance for recovery, despite the height of the plunge. She suffered a fractured hip, lacerations of the arms and possible internal injuries.

The plunge came shortly after dawn and the noise of fire engines attracted nearby dwellers and dozens of early morning workers.

The victim quickly regained consciousness and later told Sgt. Mark Fay of the Warren ave. station that she had gone to the window for fresh air, became dizzy and fell out.

Miss Farina was the second plunge victim within a space of a few hours.

Mrs. Josephine MacDonald, 25, of Warren ave., Roxbury, was critically injured when she plunged three stories from a bedroom window at her home.

Little hope was held for her recovery at City Hospital where she was given the last rites of the Catholic Church. She suffered a skull fracture, internal injuries and two broken legs.

Held for Attempt To Slay N. H. Wife

CLAREMONT, N. H., July 11 (AP)—A 32-year-old man was held without bail today on a charge of attempting to murder his wife, after she escaped last night by diving through a screen window with her three-year-old son in her arms.

Francis A. Delorier pleaded innocent after police said he fired two shots from a shotgun at his fleeing wife, Beatrice, and their son, Francis, Jr. Neither was injured.

Ronci Co., jewelry manufacturers, was robbed of a $3000 payroll this noon.

The victim was carried off in his own car and then pushed out of the vehicle four blocks away after being driven at gunpoint through the Federal Hill section.

Ronci had just emerged from the Federal Hill branch of the Columbus National Bank in Atwell ave., and had stepped into his parked sedan when the robbers grabbed him. The payroll funds were in a bag.

Ronci told police one of the unmasked pair had a pistol. The man with the gun, he said, got behind the wheel and handed the weapon to his accomplice. He said they drove around for 10 minutes before he was forced out of the car which later was found abandoned in the area.

The kidnap-robbery was staged on one of the city's busiest streets and Ronci was taken for the ride through the thick of noontime traffic.

The victim reported the two men were waiting at his car when he got out of the bank. One pushed a pistol into his side. He said the gunman got into the car first, Ronci followed, and the accomplice then entered.

Probe of Blonde Actress' Death Reveals Her Existence Similar to That of 1923 Murder Victim

2 'Sugar Daddies' Released In Murder of N. Y. Actress

NEW YORK, July 11—With the release of two "sugar daddies" in the strangling of Broadway butterfly Sheila Mannering, investigators sought new clues today in the victim's safe deposit box where they found $8100 in cash, $2200 in war bonds,

Manning murder scene.

The Dot King case remains one of New York's most sensational and unsolved slayings. Probe of that crime revealed J. Kearsley Mitchell as the wealthy and socially prominent benefactor who left $1000 bills under her pillow after each visit.

One of the angles under study in Mrs. Mannering's death was the source of $100 bills and of various checks for sums ranging from $20. Detectives said she frequently cashed the checks and regularly each week visited a small electric appliance store in the neighborhood where she broke the $100 bills, exclaiming:

"Look what Daddy gave me."

Bank accounts of the two new "daddies" were scrutinized today in an effort to ascertain just how much they spent on Mrs. Mannering's account.

The two men released after lengthy questioning were Jacob Rosen, 53, a married textile executive of West End ave., and Jack Levy, age and address undisclosed.

Rosen, who told police his income was $25,000 a year as a partner in a decorative linen business, admitted he had known the slain actress for 17 years and said he had dined with her Sunday and Monday nights. He denied having seen her Tuesday, the day of the murder, and a business associate provided an alibi for his whereabouts that day.

A high police official said was impressions were being made of Rosen's dental work to determine whether they match the teeth marks on a cigar found in the victim's apartment and similar marks on the woman's arm. Rosen admitted that several pairs of underclothes and collars found in Mrs. Mannering's closet belonged to him.

Detectives reported they were convinced Rosen was the bald, stocky friend whom neighbors often had seen visiting Mrs. Mannering. Rosen is married and has a 21-year-old son and daughter, 18. His lawyer had obtained a writ of habeas corpus for his release after 25 hours of questioning only a few minutes before he was freed by the district attorney's office.

Levy, released at the same time, admitted having been a companion of the slain blonde, but emphatically denied all knowledge of the crime.

Manufacturers Urge Solons Slash Taxes Six Billion

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—A $6,000,000,000 cut in individual income taxes and a 50 per cent limit on taxation of big earnings was proposed to Congress today by the National Ass'n of Manufacturers. Tax rates now reach 85.5 per cent on the highest bracket incomes.

Don G. Mitchell, chairman of NAM's taxation committee, told the House Ways and Means Committee the NAM program is designed to insure full production and employment by encouraging investments.

The proposed tax slash would not be in addition to the $4,000,000,000 Republican-backed bill now before Congress, but an alternative means of reducing taxes.

Mitchell described the GOP bill as "a step in the right direction," in a statement prepared for a committee hearing on possible revisions to be considered next year. While not calling for reductions in corporate rates now, the NAM said these should be lowered "as the federal budget is brought down to a stable postwar level."

Mitchell, who is president of Sylvania Electric Products Co. of New York, outlined NAM's program for individuals as follows:

1—Reduce the maximum individual tax rate (normal and surtax combined) to 50 per cent, applicable at the taxable income level of $100,000 and above; revise the entire tax rate scale downward from the 50 per cent maximum to a rate of 12 per cent on the first bracket of taxable income. The first bracket rate now is 19 per cent.

2—Permit a deduction up to $500 for life insurance premiums paid by the taxpayer on his own life and a deduction for medical expenses actually paid by the taxpayer for himself, his spouse, or a dependent, up to $1250 for a single person and $2500 for a married person.

3—Authorize for general use the division of income between husband and wife for tax-computing purposes. This is now permitted under local laws in 13 community property states, resulting in lower overall federal taxation of family income.

Mitchell said there should be some adjustments of excise tax rates to diminish "the discriminations and inequities of tax among different classes of goods."

Mitchell said that under the program for individual incomes, the largest relief would go to those who receive less than $5000.

"playing politics" in the legislation.

The Senate was ready to vote on its first amendment and hoped to send the Jan. 1 tax relief bill to the White House tonight.

President Truman hastened the showdown by announcing in advance he will veto this bill as he did the original.

At the same time, Sen. Morse (R.) of Oregon, who has some amendments of his own, took this shot at the legislation and its sponsors:

"There is no question that the Republican leadership is playing politics in the tax bill. There is a great danger that it will boom-arang against the best interests of my party."

Mayor's Son George Still 'Very Sick'

City Greeter George C. Curley, son of the mayor, still was "very sick" at Cohasset Hospital, where he is under treatment for pneumonia and pleurisy, members of his family said today.

Mrs. Gertrude Dennis Curley returned from the hospital to her Scituate summer home during the early afternoon and gave that description of young Curley's condition.

Earlier, his sister, Mrs. Mary Curley Donnelly, had been informed by the hospital that George was "holding his own—that's about all." She said he had spent a restless night but seemed to be breathing easier.

Meanwhile no word has been received by the family from the mayor, who was informed of his son's illness by the prison chaplain at Danbury, Ct., where he is serving a six-to-eight-month term on a mail fraud conviction.

Whether or not a trip to his son's bedside by the mayor would be necessary still remained in doubt.

It was generally felt, however, the young city official had passed the crisis and was showing slight improvement. Still awaited, however, is definite word from his physician, Dr. Edward H. Schott, on the result of a 24-hour penicillin treatment which had been given to young Curley.

Curley, Andy May Get Congress Pensions

WASHINGTON, July 11 (INS)—The U. S. Civil Service Commission said that Mayor Curley of Boston, a former Congressman, and Rep. Andrew J. May (D.) of Kentucky would continue to receive lifetime federal pensions despite their recent conviction in criminal cases.

A spokesman declared: "The fact a person has been convicted doesn't change the fact that he served in Congress and is entitled to retirement benefits. All we do is change the address."

IDENTIFIES HAMMER—Sgt. Harry Lee (left) identifies a machinist's ballpeen hammer as one he found on the blasted yacht of the Walter Overalls... as he testified at the murder trial in Santa Ana, Cal., of Beulah Louise Overell and George Gollum. The hammer, which the State contends could have been the murder weapon, is held by Asst. Prosecutor Henry Diets.

Death Tools Shown Yacht Blast Juries

SANTA ANA, Cal., July 11 (INS)—Tools and equipment, labeled by the State as the instruments of death, were part of the evidence today in the Overell yacht murder trial.

In the collection was a machinist's ballpeen hammer, a battered rusty alarm clock, a dynamite cap, a few strands of wire and a small piece of pink adhesive tape.

Although the prosecution has not yet nailed it down as such, the hammer has been termed the weapon with which Mrs. Walter E. Overell was slugged to death aboard her yacht, the Mary E., in Newport Bay last March 15.

The other items were nailed down. They are identified by the State as parts of the home-made dynamite bomb used to sink the yacht, and thus cover up the slaying of Mrs. Overell and her wealthy financier husband.

These were identified by Sgt. Russell Camp, a veteran explosives expert from the Los Angeles Police Crime Laboratory, who gave the jury a detailed description of the time bomb.

The ballpeen hammer was introduced in evidence late yesterday, shortly before court recessed for the week-end.

Plane Picks Up Injured Seaman

A Coast Guard amphibian plane from Salem, carrying a dangerously injured Norwegian seaman, winged over the Atlantic toward its home base today after a dramatic transfer of the disabled man from an Army transport 700 miles at sea.

Knut Thorsen, member of the crew of the Norwegian motor vessel Cypria, suffered severe internal injuries and pelvic fractures in a fall into the ship's hold.

The U. S. Army transport Willard A. Holbrook also responded to the distress calls and reached the side of the Cypria at midnight. The injured man was transferred to the Army vessel, which then stood by to await the arrival of the plane.

Arrangements were made to have the injured man taken to Brighton Marine Hospital as soon as the plane landed at the Salem base around 2 p. m. today.

Thug Who Fled 4 Cops Here Nabbed After Wave of Crime

Chester L. Gasunas, 22, of Hanover, an ex-convict who staged a spectacular escape from four policemen in the South Station last month, was arrested in Batavia, N. Y., today after what police termed a four-week crime rampage in four states.

Gasunas was arrested under New York State Police guns near Silver Springs last night. He was charged with first degree robbery and illegal possession of a revolver, while authorities pondered whether to charge him with kidnapping as well. The Hanover man was to be arraigned in Hornell, N. Y. city court.

Gasunas, who had been involved in the printing of fake draft cards while serving a term at Deer Island, was being sought here early in June when his aunt signed a complaint he had appropriated her car and wrecked it near Lake George, N. Y. He was lured to the South Station through a telephone ruse but sensed it upon arrival and fled.

Loss of his right eye has robbed him of the chance to fill the shoes of Dom DiMaggio some day, but John Bernard Kennedy, 15, of Roxbury, bravely vowed at City Hospital that somehow he's going to make his dreams of a baseball career come true.

"Johnny is coming along fine," his nurse reported today. "He slept well and he's a grand little man. He says now he's afraid he will have to be a baseball coach or scout. I guess he knows he won't be able to play for the Red Sox."

Without a whimper, the youngster accepted the cruel fate that cost him his right eye. He didn't cry when a wild throw skidded off a first baseman's mitt and crushed his eyeball as he sat enthralled in the Red Sox dugout at the Fenway Park baseball school.

He didn't cry at the hospital when his dad, Alexander Kennedy, a World War I hero for four years with the Canadian Army, held his hand and said the doctors had decided his eye must come out. And the brave youngster was not crying today when full realization came that all those dreams of becoming a Red Sox regular never could come true.

John, who is center fielder of the Scrubby Nine of Roxbury, had gone off to Fenway Park to join the baseball school only to learn that he was a year too young. So he decided to stick around and pick up a few tips from the big league coaches that might help the Scrubbies.

He hunched himself up in the corner of the bench, the very spot where Dom DiMaggio, his hero, always sits.

Pomp or Austerity For Royal Wedding?

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Ill-fed, ill-housed and ill-clothed Britons were invited today by the widely circulated Daily Express to vote on whether Princess Elizabeth's wedding should be shadowed by the rationed austerity under which the King's subjects live.

"Should there be flags and parties and bands and a vote from public funds to make Princess Elizabeth's wedding day our most colorful festive occasion since the Coronation?" The Express asked. "Or should the austerity of life and the government dictate an occasion where Britain's traditional salute to happiness would seem out of place?"

The paper, which claims a circulation of 3,973,287—nearly one out of every 10 Britons—asked its readers to write "yes" or "no" on a postcard in answer to the question.

"Should the Princess' wedding day be selected as the first post-war occasion to restore to Britain the traditional gaiety of a gala public event?"

The Express suggested the wedding celebration should include "processions, reviews, parties, balcony scenes and fireworks."

The day is certain to be a public holiday, although the wedding date—expected to be sometime in October—has not yet been announced.

The date will be chosen by the King and Queen in consultation with Princess Elizabeth and the bridegroom—Lt. Philip Mountbatten, former Prince Philip of Greece.

The princess and her fiancé relaxed in typically sedate English fashion today after the strenuous social whirl that followed the announcement of their betrothal.

With the King, Queen, and Princess Margaret, Elizabeth and Philip went to see the annual Harrow vs. Eton cricket match. Mountbatten, who has been staying at Buckingham Palace since shortly before the engagement was announced Wednesday night, was expected to spend the week-end with the royal family at Windsor Castle.

One of the Princess' biggest problems will be her trousseau, and the Daily Telegraph reported she would have a special allotment of clothing coupons for division among the dressmakers of the swank West End shops where she bought outfits for her royal tour of South Africa.

The Queen, bridesmaids and pages may also receive special allotments of clothing coupons, of which 18 are needed to purchase a woman's dress, 26 for a man's suit and eight for a pair of shoes.

Trumans Send Flowers To Rites for Servant's Kin
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 11 (INS)—Mourners attending the funeral today of Mrs. Mary Ann Fields, 56, of Indianapolis, noted a spray of a half-dozen orchids adorning the modest bier.

Among the children of Mrs. Fields present was Alonzo Fields, one of three sons, who arrived yesterday from Washington in a special Army plane. The orchids were sent by President and Mrs. Truman. Fields is a butler at the White House.

Momma Duck Outwits Cops In Tiff Over Dumb Ducklings

A mother duck, who obviously wouldn't trust a cop any farther than she could throw him, and her five ducklings, who were so intrigued with the cops they ignored Momma's quacks to keep their silly heads down, had a brush with the law in Brookline today.

Miss Olive Dillon, 27, of Chestnut ave., Jamaica Plain, who keeps books for the Stanley System garage in Commonwealth ave., Brookline, discovered Momma and her young in the grass at the corner of the garage. Momma pulled the old trick: she flew off, pretending she was alone. But the ducklings pushed their near-bald noggins up over the grass and peeped a howdy to Miss Dillon.

Miss Dillon called the Animal Rescue League. They said to just put the ducklings in the Charles river. She called the Boston police. They checked the address with her and said, with great relief, it appeared to be a job for the Brookline police.

Miss Dillon was not to be side-stepped. She called the Brookline police, who sent Patrolmen Michael McGrail and William McInerney. Momma had returned by this time and was trying to quack her offspring into military formation for a quick retreat.

But the ducklings ignored her. They thought McGrail and McInerney wanted to play. They did, too. The officers got a box, gingerly dropped in the peeping five and took them to Hawes pond, Amory st., Brookline.

Momma, hissing like a jet-propelled plane, took off after the cruiser. When the police had retreated she led the ducklings out of the box and into the pond, scolding the daylight out of the entire flotilla.

$95.29 BREAKFAST

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP)—It was a costly year for strawberries that Rel Brown of London had.

Brown, stopping at a hotel where he couldn't remember his diet allowed him to eat the berries. His copy of the diet was in London.

So before ordering breakfast, he put in a transatlantic call to his wife. She informed him he could have the berries.

Brown breakfasted sumptuously on eggs, toast, coffee, cream and fresh strawberries.

Cost $1.29, plus $94 in phone calls.

NOTA AGGELOPOULOS, 16 Greek Girl to Wed Hub Fireman

Hub Fireman, Greek Girl, 16, To Wed Here

Sixteen-year-old Nota Aggelopoulos of Tripoli, Greece, will be married here July 20 to a Boston fireman whom she met in her native land two years ago while he was in the Army Medical Corps and tending to wounds other than those inflicted by Cupid.

The bridegroom will be Angelo J. Koutrouba, 23, of Fairmount st., Dorchester. Koutrouba was visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Christina Xagas of Tripoli, whom he hadn't seen since childhood, when in walked Nota.

They became engaged by mail after he returned to this country. She arrived three weeks ago.

They will be married at the Greek Orthodox Church, Parker and Ruggles st., at a 7 p. m. ceremony.

Sale to Cop Costs Liquor License

The Boston Licensing Board voted today to revoke permanently the liquor license of Tobias Levine, owner of a Cummins highway pharmacy, for the sale of a bottle of liquor to a customer who turned out to be a policeman.

The board announced, however, no action would be taken until Levine had appealed to the State Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission. He has five days in which to file such an appeal.

Counsel for the druggist declared Levine had been persuaded to sell the bottle to the police officer who "appeared in military uniform" and played on his sympathies by saying he was not feeling well.

Patrolman Myles Walsh, the officer who made the purchase denied he wore a military uniform. He said he had told the druggist he was not feeling well when he asked him to sell him the liquor.

36 YEAR MAIL LAG

MATTAPOISET, July 11 (AP)—Eighty-year-old Mrs. Flora Washburn received an invitation for a summer visit to Washington, D. C. today—and then remembered that she made that visit 36 years ago. The invitation was on a postcard from her niece, Mrs. Flora Pierce Halstead, of 3214 5th st., Arlington, Va., and the card was postmarked Washington, D. C., April 7, 1911.

New Bedford mail superintendent Robert J. Neville theorized that the card must have slipped behind a sorting case and remained undiscovered until the case was moved.

Girl Hit by Car Treated; Dies Mysteriously

SALEM, N. H., July 11 (AP)—An 11-year-old girl whose parents said she was treated by two doctors after being struck by an automobile, was found dead in bed today and a medical examiner said the child apparently died about an hour after her parents said goodnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner W. Abbott were quoted by police as saying their daughter, Marjorie Anne, was apparently all right when they last looked in at her about 1 a. m.

The child, police said, was struck near her home while riding her bicycle yesterday by an automobile, they reported, was driven by Gerard Gauthier of Montreal, Canada, and owned by Mrs. Pauline Letoile of Haverhill, Mass.

The girl was attended by two physicians for a cracked rib and face injuries and put to bed at home.

Another Abbott child, James, 5, was killed four years ago in a fall from a piazza.

Drivers' Strike Ties N. E. Trucks

Nearly 30 Massachusetts and Maine trucking concerns closed down today in the aftermath of a work stoppage which began with a strike of 100 AFL drivers in three interstate firms at Portland.

The speedy shutdown of virtually all pickup and delivery trucks between Boston and Maine was announced by Mayo S. Levenson, president of Carriers Employers, Inc., representatives of the 30 trucking companies.

"It would be too hazardous to continue in operation because of the loss in perishables," Levenson said at Portland.

"We can't rely any longer on the word of the union—they have struck at three firms and are liable to hit at any of 27 others without the 48 hours warning they had promised."

Levenson added that the operators' action in shutting down had halted 95 per cent of the Boston to Maine motor freight movement, laying off 750 drivers and warehousemen and affecting 4000 other employees.

The union is demanding a 25 cents an hour pay increase, a 54-hour week with time and a half after 48 hours, and two weeks vacation instead of one. Management has offered a 13 cents an hour wage increase.

Hill, Springfield Benefactor, Dies

SPRINGFIELD, July 11—Nathan D. Hill, who retired at the age of 33 after amassing a fortune in the paper and envelope business, and later won fame as the "father of the Springfield playground system," died today at his Crescent Park home. He was 91. Hill was stricken ill at his Florida home last winter and had returned here this spring.

A native of this city, he took his first job as a farmer's helper for $2.50 a month when he was 12. Five years later he was a school teacher. At 20, he became a partner in the Union Envelope and Paper Co., and later founded the National Envelope Co. He donated five playgrounds and the land for two municipal golf courses to Springfield.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ruth Wight, and a daughter, Mrs. Fritz B. Talbott of Brookline.

Sing Sing Executes 4 Men In One Night

OSSINING, N. Y., July 11 (AP) —Four men, one shouting "I am innocent", were executed last night at Sing Sing. The prison's last quadruple execution was eight years ago.

Salvatore Di Christogaro, 35, of Buffalo, convicted of killing a man in a fight over a woman, died first. He said nothing.

Edward Jones, 22-year-old Negro, of New York, was the one who protested he was innocent. He was convicted of a holdup slaying.

Arnold Sims, Negro, 23, also died for the same slaying. He turned to the prison chaplain and said "O. K., Doc. Thank you for all you have done for me. God bless you."

The fourth man, William J. Thomas, 20, another New York Negro, convicted of killing a policeman, looked around, but said nothing.

7 Nazi Scientists Work For U.S. on Hitler Weapons

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP) —The Los Angeles Times published a story today saying seven German scientists, experts on Nazi secret weapons in World War II, are now working for the U. S. Navy under voluntary contracts at the Guided Missile Test Center at Point Mugu, Cal.

The Times said the exact nature of their work was not disclosed but that they are completing war-time projects begun for Hitler.

Little Gray Guy's Luck Runs Out But His Horse Comes In

NEW YORK, July 11—The third was off at Jamiaca and the little gray-guy with the yellow win ticket on Itsabet elbowed his way to the rail, hoping that Wednesday would be his lucky day at the finish.

Two bigger guys edged to the rail behind him. They also hoped that Wednesday would be their lucky day at the finish.

The horses came out of the gate, with jockey Donoso booting Itsabet into the lead before the far turn. "Wow!" yelled the little gray guy. The big guys said nothing.

They came into the stretch and for a moment, Mr. Chrysler's Hirta, under Mehtens' whip, poked her nose into the lead. "Ow!" groaned the little gray guy. The big guys said nothing.

Hirta faltered, faded, Mr. Whitney's Dusty Legs came on, but just failed to make it at the wire, Itsabet by a head!

"Whoops!" cheered the little gray guy waving his yellow win ticket, worth $43 and his money back at the payoff window.

The big guys closed in and tapped him on the shoulders, which sagged as the law finally caught up with Harry Moskowitz, 54, wanted for three years in both North Pelham, N. Y., and New Brunswick, N. J., for alleged thefts of stock from jewelry firms which employed him as salesman.

"I guess I'm your man," Moskowitz admitted, "but please, gents, could I collect? I just won on Itsabet."

"It's a bet," agreed his captors, who followed him goosestep to the payoff window, where the alleged absconder pocketed his gains.

"Thanks," he said. "Don't mention it. The pleasure is mutual," chorused the two headquarters detectives.

Following his arraignment yesterday in felony court as a fugitive, Moskowitz was turned over to North Pelham police. He's not so lucky on Thursdays.

Television's Story in Sunday Paper

They said he couldn't do it, but Gene McDonald found a way to put television "in the black."

Now he is ready to bring television, radio's problem child, into America: living room with first-run movies, Broadway plays and —no commercials.

In "To-Fisted Dreamer," Sunday's American Weekly magazine, distributed with the Boston Sunday Advertiser, will bring you the inspiring success story of this farsighted radio executive who had an idea and fought for it.

A special American Weekly article, 'Don't Let Baby Be a Dictator,' contains some provocative advice to mothers from Evelyn Barkins, author and mother, who stages a one-woman revolt against customary bringing-up-baby methods. Proper baby care, she urges, need not entail melodramatic self-sacrifice.

Once OGPU Triggerman, Now Topflight CIO Union Executive

By HOWARD RUSHMORE

NEW YORK, July 11—Seven years after he was named by congressional witnesses as a "trigger man" for Stalin's OGPU in Spain, Anthony Demaio has become international representative of one of the CIO's biggest unions, it was learned today.

This Marxist success story of a Bolshevik Horatio Alger started when Demaio left with a contingent of Communists to fight in the Abraham Lincoln Brigade in 1937. Currently it finds the stocky Red Fascist at the age of 33 a major figure in the United Electrical and Radio Workers.

Demaio, now one of the commissars of the Communist-dominated union which claimed 650,000 members during the war, has been active recently on a national scale in various CIO campaigns.

Recently the U. S. News, official organ of the CIO group, boasted of Demaio's "heroic war record." It stated he had been placed in charge of a "camp of 700 women in Czechoslovakia by the U. S. Army."

Big Shortage in Potato Crop Now Forecast
 WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—The potato may cause the government another headache this year. There's a shortage in prospect. Last year there were too many spuds. The Agriculture Dept. has forecast this year's production at 351,000,000 bushels. This is about 125,000,000 bushels less than last year and about 25,000,000 less than the country requires each year.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS
 Head of the Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—What is the oil used for killing weed in carrots?

A—Certain naphtha oils and cleaning fluids can be used, but they must be applied with the proper nozzle and pressure. Commercial growers are using this method but the home gardener will do just as well by hand weeding.

Q—Insects are already eating the leaves of our two large elms. Can spray be applied now?

A—The elm leaf beetle is already feeding. Trees should be sprayed now. As elms are usually tall the only way to get it sprayed is to have them sprayed by commercial tree men with power equipment.

Q—Soil tests indicate a need of lime in our lawn. Will limestone applied now burn the grass?

A—No. Limestone can be applied at any time. The effect will not show this year however.

Q—What is a good crop to follow peas which will be picked in about a week?

A—Peas can be followed by beets, carrots, pickling cucumbers or cabbage.

Strike Perils Pineapple Crop

HONOLULU, July 11 (AP)—CIO workers struck the multi-million dollar pineapple industry today at the harvest peak, but negotiations on the deadlocked wage issue continued between representatives of the pineapple companies and Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. The strike hit eight companies which process 90 per cent of the world's pineapple supply. The industry has estimated losses in the highly-perishable crops now golden ripe in the fields of Oahu, Maui, Kauai, Molokai and Lanai islands—would run upward of $500,000 daily.

Body Massage at a Price

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IT IS NO LONGER a monopolized gesture of some favored few to stretch out in relaxing comfort and ease in a beautifully appointed beauty salon . . . and let the powerful and professional fingers of a masseuse work over the body . . . ironing out the kinks, melting unwanted bulges . . . and, generally speaking, making a gal feel like the proverbial million.

The feeling is one of leisure-luxury . . . and every woman can enjoy it if she likes . . . for price is no longer prohibitive. There is a noted salon in town which makes a specialty of body massages and other treatments which tend to revitalize the body in beauty and buoyancy.

A famous movie star we know never was without her masseuse when she traveled the country for personal appearances. And never a day went by without a body massage being administered to this country's darling. Small wonder she never looked her age . . . but rather like a young thing in face and figure. As we recall . . . she told us it was a daily body treatment which kept her in trim for the many, many activities she had to complete.

Of course we can't have a masseuse in constant attendance upon us . . . but there is nothing to prevent a woman from having a periodic treatment . . . or enroll for a series of eight, nicely spaced, to keep her pep and figure appearance above par.

In this salon . . . not only do the body treatments include massage and shower . . . but the use of their exquisite creams and lotions. And at the conclusion of the treatment you are handed a makeup tray so that when you leave the salon you are pretty special to look at . . . to say nothing of how wonderful you feel. We couldn't do without these treatments. They are like the figurative shot-in-the-arm . . . especially after a harassing and busy day . . . and before an important engagement.

EASIER ON YOUR FEET

The body massage consists of a half-hour treatment expertly administered . . . followed by a cooling and refreshing shower. You may have one such body-beautiful fixing . . . or a course of eight . . . as you desire. But we'll assure you . . . that after one . . . you'll be a steady customer.

You'll walk out of that salon virtually on air . . . because you'll be a new woman in looks, spirit and feeling. You'll feel lighter . . . and easier on your feet . . . and, physically, your mind will be riding the clouds. We are apt to get a mite lonely in hot weather. Certainly we have no desire to go through a tedious and tiresome regime of calisthenics. But we do want to look and feel chipper.

This treatment will root lethargy for a merry-far-thee-well. For while you relax an expert will work over you and her kneading fingers will obliterate fatigue and fat like a miracle-charm.

For the name of the salon featuring this body massage, one or a course of eight, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBERTY 4000, daily except week-ends, or write to me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You will find many excellent opportunities for greater happiness and prosperity this month and next if you think less about yourself and more about other persons, especially members of your family and business associates. Persons born on this date cannot afford to be self-centered.

Let Young Folks Alone

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: Will you settle a dispute in our family circle? Is it proper for a young girl over 21 to save so much money from her boy friend's salary each week for an engagement ring?

We call her a collector. W. G.

Dear W. G.:

It seems to me that if such an arrangement is convenient and satisfactory to the couple in question it is entirely their own affair and their families should keep out of it. What business is it of anybody but themselves?

What if it is a little unconventional? There's no harm in that.

I certainly hope this girl and her young man aren't so unfortunate as to have the kind of families who feel called upon to offer unasked-for advice all the time. Why don't you be the one to call a halt in such doings, if this is the case, and suggest that the young people be left to run their own affairs in their own way?

New Styles Are Softer

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

THE feminine little touches that women of a bygone day used to love on their go-to-sleep dresses are coming back in fashion as a softer way of dressing replaces the hard sophistication of recent years.

Designers now are giving their new dresses a softly rounded look. The theory now is that since women do have hips and busts there's no point in cutting a dress as if they didn't. Hips come in for special treatment. They may be padded or otherwise emphasized with panniers. Dresses are more elaborate above the waist; the bosom line is further stressed with fuller sleeves. Necklines are softened with sheer lingerie touches.

Sketched today is a dress that is full of this feminine feeling. Mme. Mag of Paris designed it in purplish brown wool lightened with touches of hand-tucked to the hips.

beige lawn. The tulle-trimmed vestee curves over the bodice. The wide neckline is inset with a piece of fluted lawn. The full, full sleeves are elbow-length and end in a wide band of the hand-tucked ruffling.

Sausage Links, Scalloped Potatoes Top Summer Dish

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

EVERY WISE HOMEMAKER tries to plan summer meals that can be prepared with as little effort as possible. Naturally, if two items on the menu can be combined in one dish, it will make the meal easier. And if the dish is cooked in the oven, it's better still.

The popular standby, a casserole of scalloped potatoes with meat added, is a perfect answer to the problem. This dish has many variations. One time, the meat used may be small pork sausage links, as suggested in the recipe given below. Another time, it may be pork chops. Individual servings of sliced ham, frankfurters.

The dish may also be varied by adding other vegetables. A few sliced onions give extra flavor and go well with almost any kind of meat. Carrot strips and whole kernel corn are two other possibilities. A dash of herbs or grated cheese may be used for extra seasoning.

SAUSAGE LINKS WITH SCALLOPED POTATOES

1 lb. small sausage links
6 medium potatoes
Milk

Salt and pepper to season
Pare and cut potatoes into thin slices. Cut half of the sausage links into pieces about 1 inch in length. Place alternate layers of potatoes and cut sausage links in greased casserole, sprinkling each layer of potatoes with flour, salt and pepper. Add milk until it can be seen between the slices of potato. Place remaining sausage links on top. Cover and bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 45 minutes to 1 hour. About 20 minutes before end of cooking time, remove cover and continue cooking until potatoes are tender and sausage links are browned. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

DINNER WITH EASE

After the few minutes spent in preparing the casserole dish for the oven, the homemaker can forget the dinner for a while. Fresh asparagus cooks in a short time; quick-and-easy relishes take the place of a salad.

It's good strategy, whenever possible, to prepare the dessert in the morning. Then it's ready in the refrigerator to bring out at the last minute. Cool, refreshing snow pudding (made with gelatin) is ideal to top off a hearty meal. To make it especially luscious, serve a spoonful of crushed, sweetened berries or fruit on top.

SNOW PUDDING

1 tbs. granulated gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 cup sugar
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Soften gelatin in cold water about 5 minutes. Add boiling water and sugar, and stir until dissolved. Add strained lemon juice and cool quickly. When thick, beat until frothy. Add stiffly beaten egg whites, and continue beating until stiff enough to hold its shape. Pour in serving dish and chill until set. Serve with crushed berries or fruit. Makes 6 servings.

Long May Block Norwood Pay Hike

Norwood police and firemen were voted a $200 raise by a special town meeting last night—but they had their doubts today about collecting it.

The next move will be up to Tax Comm. Henry F. Long, who told the town finance committee yesterday if any such move were made he would disapprove it. Long said it was against the policy of his office to countenance the raising of town salaries in the middle of a fiscal year, especially when the money would be drawn from surplus funds.

The raise, which boosted maximum pay of police and fire departments from $2800 to $3000, was voted at a meeting attended by only 125 of the town's 7500 registered voters.

Court Scores 3 'Punks' for Fence Razing

Tearing down a neighbor's fence for a bonfire is not a patriotic gesture for the Fourth of July but the act of "punks," Judge Ralph W. Reeve of Lynn declared today in sentencing three defendants who pleaded not guilty to malicious destruction of property.

Napoleon Bouchette, 39, Alley st., Lynn, a State Prison parolee, was given three months on the property charge and fined $100 on two counts of assault and battery. He appealed and was held in $2200 bail.

Sidney L. Springthorpe, 17, and Victor L. Chiappini, 17, both of Alley st., were fined $100 each for assault and battery, given three-months' suspended sentences and placed on probation for a year. They must each make restitution of $39 for the fence.

Police testified the trio, early July 5, tore down a fence of Aaron and Joseph Schechtman, brothers, of Alley st., for a neighborhood bonfire attended by a large crowd. When Atty. John J. Foley pleaded for leniency, pointing out Springthorpe and Chiappini were recent graduates from Lynn Classical High School and holding they had been swept away by "holiday spirit," Judge Reeve declared: "We are dealing here with punks, who were very brave when they had numbers in back of them."

Of the Schechtman brothers, who required hospital treatment after being mauled when they tried to protect the fence, Judge Reeve said:

"I have every respect for Aaron Schechtman and his brother. Aaron Schechtman left this city to fight for this country at the age of 45. He and his brother are responsible citizens. These defendants are three punks."

Beater's Sentence Tripled on Appeal

Chief Justice John P. Higgins served notice on wife-beaters today that they could expect short shrift in his court when he boosted a one-month lower court sentence imposed on Joseph Dusevitch of Westville rd., Dorchester, to three months in superior court.

Dusevitch had appealed the one-month term imposed last week in Dorchester court but had pleaded guilty to assault and battery on his wife when he appeared before Judge Higgins today.

The judge conferred with the wife, Helen, at the bench, then turned to Dusevitch and said: "You can't keep on doing this and I'll see to it that you go away every time that it happens. I'm raising that one-month sentence to three months."

The actor said he would fly to Paris on Monday.

THE NAVY KEEPS FAITH

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, JULY 11, 1947

THE nation-wide ceremonies conducted in observance of the 200th anniversary of the birth of John Paul Jones gave the American people new understanding of a great patriot and new appreciation of the naval service to which his name is a great inspiration.

The purpose of the observance was thus accomplished, for the Navy depends for its own place in the esteem of the American people upon public understanding of its traditions and appreciation of the manner in which it keeps faith with those traditions.

There were many fine expressions of this purpose in the various John Paul Jones Bicentennial ceremonies throughout the country, and one of the best was the thoughtful address delivered in San Francisco by Rear Admiral Donald B. Beary, commandant of the Twelfth Naval District.

It is not sufficient for the security of the country, as Admiral Beary said, for the armed forces alone—and not the people as a whole—to have a high sense of patriotic responsibility.

"We of the Navy," assured the throngs assembled in honor of the man who is called the father of the navyservice, "do not propose to sit idly by and allow our ships and our personnel to drift into obscurity and decay when this world could harbor international bandits capable of starting another war."

The best proof that the nation can depend upon the Navy in this respect, as he observed, is found in its record in the recent conflict.

"I ask you to recall those dark days of 1912," he said, "when every card in the deck appeared stacked against us."

"We were losing ground rapidly, we were losing ships and men, our equipment was woefully inadequate and many of our men unseasoned."

"Where would we have been without that basic concept of Americanism which found expression in the courageous words from John Paul Jones?"

The United States Navy had something more than high tradition to sustain it in those dark days. It also had the patriotic and moral stamina to keep faith with the American people.

But national responsibility is not something the people can delegate to the armed forces, for as Admiral Beary forthrightly told his San Francisco audience:

"What we can do depends upon the means provided by you, the people . . ."

"As a nation, we must keep our glorious fighting fleet in fighting shape."

"With the full support of you, the citizens, whose lives, properties and freedoms we are charged to protect, and the inspiration of our great naval heroes and leaders starting with John Paul Jones, your Navy will be able to meet successfully any threat to our country."

PUBLIC understanding of naval tradition is an essential condition of national security. Public appreciation of the manner in which the Navy has always discharged its responsibilities in the past is a vital condition of enduring peace.

Public acceptance of adequate preparedness for national defense as a NATIONAL DUTY is the most indispensable of all the safeguards which can and must be raised against violation of the security and peace coveted and cherished by the American people.

The John Paul Jones Bicentennial Observance impressed these fundamental facts upon the thousands of Americans who participated, and was thus a most significant patriotic occasion, not merely honoring the Navy of the United States for its tradition of keeping faith, but pledging the people of the United States to an adequate performance of their own basic concepts of duty.

WHAT NEXT?

DR. PAUL W. SEAGERS, a New York educator, does not eulogize the traditional "little red schoolhouse."

Here are a few of the doctor's ideas:

Honey-colored furniture to replace drab desks and chairs; sun yellow ceilings; musical chimes instead of clanging bells; green and white charts for blackboards; pink and blue walls, and jaunty tan linoleum on the floors.

It is all very pretty, but we'll exchange the whole thing for a half-dozen good teachers of the "little red schoolhouse" variety.

Yet carry nothing thence away.

GENTLEMEN, take particular note of the last three lines of the above. They were written 300 years ago. That gives you an idea of how long men have been squawking about getting lipstick and make-up smeared all over their faces and attire.

The trolley car may be a thing of the past in Manhattan but this mode of transportation is not being abandoned everywhere. Some cities are putting new streamlined trolley cars into service. This type of trolley car costs $21,000. It rides very smoothly. To my way of thinking the modern city bus is the most horrible form of transportation ever inflicted on a long suffering public. Give me a streamlined trolley car with a smoking section in the rear. One that in the good old summertime can be converted into an open car.

PASSING BY—Rev. Charles Newman, Vicar of St. Paul's Chapel, built in 1766. St. Paul's is the oldest church building in Manhattan.

George Washington attended services there on many occasions. . . . Freddie Fraulick, Actors' agent, Freddie has kindly offered to act as a volunteer expert on red-haired women for our Horses & Women Department. He has a red-haired wife and a red-haired secretary. . . . Bing Crosby, The old groaner himself, in person. Wearing a necktie That's very unusual. Must be a Father's Day gift. Bing's best-selling record is a Christmas platter which has Silent Night on one side and Adestes Fideles on the other. Nearly all Christmas recordings prove profitable. J. Fred Coots who wrote "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" has been getting fancy royalty checks from that number for many years.

MODELS—A well-known Manhattan model recently stated to a reporter that she had received an offer for a try-out in a Hollywood film studio with a starting salary of "a measley $150 a week." That's speaking very discouragingly of what millions of Americans would consider an unusually good salary. It is, of course, not much as Hollywood salaries go but even so it is pretty good for an inexperienced female. Models are the most conceited of all career girls. Most of them are so self-centered that they are terrific bores. Also their conceit reveals itself in their photographs. A highly refreshing rarity is a photograph of a natural unaffected appearing model.

ASKING Quotes from Clients: Q—As for Father's Day songs what about the one "What's the Matter With Father—He's All Right"? A—That's a very good Father's Day ditty. I can't understand how it became a forgotten song. I am suggesting the band play it next year during the annual Father's Day parade in the borough of the Bronx. Q—Are you familiar with the poem titled "The Lullaby Lament"? A—Never. I'm I of it. However, I know one titled "October First Is Fine" which goes as follows:

Far in the forest the leaves are falling,
Marsh grass is golden, wild geese are calling,
But here in the city the whole world hollers
"I want an apartment for sixty-five dollars."

PLEASE NOTE: Note it stated by a reputable source in the ice cream industry that there are 132 different flavors of ice cream. This is news to me. I can only think of 42 different flavors. The most different flavors of ice cream I have seen offered in one place was in a refreshment parlor in Galveston, Tex., which had 29 different kinds of ice cream on its menu card. My favorite ice cream is Neapolitan. After that Spumoni.

GET IT RIGHT: "G. H. Bostwick introduced polo for the public in 1934," states a sports scribe. That is the fifth time I have seen that sentiment made and now my patience is exhausted. Polo, with no admission charged and the public welcome, was played on the parade grounds at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, when I was a kid. And that was before 1934.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate

NEW YORK, July 11—About the time that Frau Wagner was convicted of being a fanatical Hitlerite, in Germany, I received a letter addressed to the editor, typical of those which come from F. D. Roosevelt's most ardent followers which said that Pegler was a menace, a nut, insane, crazy.

Westbrook Pegler

"When he says that Roosevelt was a crook," the letter said, "it proves conclusively that his mind is out of order."

As to Roosevelt's crookedness, and I mean his larcenous avarice, not mere intellectual dishonesty, I have been going on the assumption that his guilt was admitted by his son, Elliott, and the widow. Otherwise they must have defended his character and reputation against unchallenged evidence. The Ways and Means Committee of the House, controlled by his own party, took one look at the proof collected by the Treasury and decided that they would not even call witnesses because if they went into the charges at all they couldn't save their hero.

I quote from this letter just to show the fanaticism that Roosevelt aroused in many Americans. It is completely insensate. Both Roosevelt and Hitler were idolized and this idolatry was addressed to qualities which both men had alike.

NOBODY IN OUR COUNTRY, except Huey Long, ever realized more shrewdly that the common people possess about 75 per cent of the muscle, the emotion and the vote and only about 25 per cent of the intelligence and character. Of course, Roosevelt was a snob, whereas Huey and Hitler were one-gallop barefoot boys. But Roosevelt divined that if he could goad a few aristocrats to say that he had turned against his own superior class and thus put himself among the common people he had put over a trick on both classes. The dumb aristocrats obligingly did just that and the common people fell for him. When he called them "my friends" he was condescending and they knew it, but they thought it was very "democratic" of a snob to sup with them.

If you will think back, you will recall that both Hitler and Roosevelt appealed directly to the vanity, the self-pity, the envy, the vengefulness and the brutality of the greatest number, with the greatest power.

ROOSEVELT was an amazing corn-doctor. Hitler foamed at the mouth and shrieked and ridiculed the Heineins to arouse them. Roosevelt called the common man "my friend," which was something coming from an up-river millionaire who spoke with a Groton-Harvard A. and churned up his feelings against "princes of privilege." He and his family had been all of these themselves. His father wouldn't fight in the Civil War because he favored the Southern cause. That is what a Copperhead was. His sons, Elliott and Jimmy, were truly princes of privilege, like the Mussolini boys and Count Ciano.

We heard a great deal about the wicked German law to punish anti-Nazis for acts which deserved punishment "by virtue of the basic idea of a penal law and the sound feeling of the nation" even though no specific law was applicable to the act.

Roosevelt couldn't do that to us all of a sudden. But he had tricks. He was a hell of a man for "administrative law." A bunch of Communists on the labor board could penalize an employer contrary to the evidence and the employer had to take it because the courts wouldn't question the board's version of the facts. He was a great hand to "investigate" his opponents and smear them with scandal. But he wouldn't let Congress inspect his own tax returns or his wife's or his mother's or Jimmy's. They were royalty. That was all.

FINALLY ROOSEVELT got much of the effect of Hitler's law against undefined crimes. He did this by driving millions of common men into unions which were lawless, often criminal, puppets of his party, ruled by ruthless demagogues at best or brothel-keepers or extortioners. Yes, Jimmy Petrillo can clown and he has no criminal record, but he can inflict the economic death penalty on his subjects for anything or nothing. So can Whitney and Tobin. So can John Lewis who got his powers straight from Roosevelt. When they bare their fangs they can rip and slash.

Throughout the years Roosevelt beat every effort to remodel the union laws to protect his stupid, glib, faceless friend, the common man, from the exploitation, anger and malice of his political henchmen, the bosses of "labuh." And now they make speeches about his great love of humanity. Don't tell me.

"... An' now, folks, if you'll send all children outta the room, we'll listen in on this!"

Announce Greenwood Betrothal at Dance

RED, WHITE AND BLUE BALLOONS and streamers, formed gay color notes against a background of crimson velvet curtains and white pine boughs at the dance Mr. and Mrs. Richard N. Greenwood gave the other evening in honor of the engagement of their daughter, Drucilla, to Paul Withington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lothrop Withington.

The evening started with a buffet supper on the porch and lawn at the Greenwoods' summer home in Plymouth, overlooking the ocean, and continued with dancing in the Forbes Casino on the Withington estate. The porch was decorated with Japanese lanterns Mr. Greenwood brought from travels in the Orient some years ago and at the casino there was a large red heart with the names of Drucilla and Paul spelled in white letters.

Paul is in the Army, stationed at Ft. Bragg, which is the reason for the patriotic tri-color motif.

Shares Garden Party Honors

For her engagement party Drucilla wore a white dinner gown with red carnations and a cluster of fresh carnations and cornflowers in her hair. Her mother's gown was a pretty flowered silk.

Guests enjoying the fun included another newly-engaged couple, Eleanor Cole and John Meyer, and Ellie's mother, Mrs. Benjamin E. Cole of Wenham, who is a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Meyer at Plymouth. Also Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Brewster, Mr. and Mrs. Fiske Mabbett, Mr. and Mrs. William Franks, Mrs. Henry Hornblower and many relatives of the future bride and groom.

THE BEAUTIFUL GARDENS and expensive ocean view at Sky High, Miss Lydia Pinkham Gove's Marblehead Neck estate, will form a lovely background for the garden party she is giving tomorrow in honor of her nieces, the Misses Dorothy and Barbara Pitman, great-granddaughters of Lydia Pinkham. Among the 300 guests Miss Gove has invited for cocktails, supper and dancing in a large marquee erected on the lawn are Mr. and Mrs. George Parker of Salem and Peterboro, N. H., Mr. and Mrs. Lothrop Withington, Brookline and Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Johnson, Milton, Dist. Atty. Wm. J. Foley, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tierney, Waban, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Russell, Marblehead Neck, Mr. John McCann, Beacon St., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brennan, Milton, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Moran, Marblehead Neck.

ROUND AND ABOUT: The newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Eduardo Estrada (Margaret Louise Whipple) are honeymooning in Guatemala City where the groom's mother makes her home and is entertaining them extensively. They will return in September to live in Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kearns announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elinor, of Washington, a former WAVE, to Lt. Col. Peter C. Stanis, USAAF, also of Washington.

'Great Waltz' and 'Cynthia' Share Loew's Twin Screens

Strauss, who made love as delightfully as he made music, and adolescence, with its monumental tragedies and triumphs, make happy summer time teaming on Loew's twin bills.

Of course, we are speaking of "The Great Waltz," the enchanting musical drama of 1938 which Metro is reviving presently, and that studio's Elizabeth Taylor—starring "Cynthia," which handles the problems of a smalltown, middle-class family with refreshing intelligence.

So many movie-going sentimentalists have been yearning to see "The Great Waltz" again that it was decided to bring it back . . . and it is as alive and ear-catching as when we first fell under its spell.

Listening again to "Tales of the Vienna Woods," "I'm in Love With Vienna," "One Day When We Were Very Young" and, of course, "The Blue Danube," or discovering for the first time this musical interpretation of the life and loves of Johann Strauss, II, is an equally happy experience. Luise Rainer, Fernand Gravet and Miliza Korjus are its incomparable stars.

Nostalgia-making, too, is Loew's new picture, "Cynthia," which focuses the camera on an average father and mother, played with quiet competence by George Murphy and Mary Astor, and their delicate, teen-age daughter, a role Hollywood's lovely teen-ager, Miss Taylor, creates with unusual skill.

Gene Lockhart's uncle-family physician, who would deny his young patient the mildest forms of school-day pleasures, and Spring Byington's lifted-pinky pretensions are overdrawn.

But the complete naturalness and sincerity characterizing the performances of the rest of the cast make their overplaying a minor matter. Distinctly on the credit side, along with the family threesome mentioned, is youthful Jimmy Lydon's returned vet-student.

Robert Z. Leonard's effective direction and Charles Schoenbaum's fine photography are other important assets in Edwin H. Knopf's first-rate production.

'Carnegie Hall' Now In 4th Week at Esquire

"Carnegie Hall," the musical film which packs a season of notable concerts into a couple hours, is now in its fourth week and is approaching the termination of its run at Esquire Theater. All seats are reserved for its two performances daily.

Musical greats distinguishing its cast are Walter Damrosch, Lily Pons, Bruno Walter, Rise Stevens, Ariur Rodzinski, Jan Peerce, Jascha Heifetz, Fritz Reiner, Leopold Stokowski, the New York Philharmonic Symphony, Vaughn Monroe and Harry James.

Marsha Hunt, William Prince and Frank McHugh play leading roles.

FEATURE TO MODERN

"The Red House," starring Edward G. Robinson with Lon McCallister in a chilling thriller, is due on the Modern Theater screen on Sunday. Companion film is to be "Under-cover Maise," starring Ann Sothern.

Hilda Simms or Lena Horne May Get Top Role

First all-dramatic Negro film with an anti-intolerance theme and sixth made in Hollywood with an all-Negro cast is now on the fire on the West Coast. Tentative plans call for a $200,000 budget and the possibility that Hilda Simms, of the late Broadway production, "Anna Lucasta," or Lena Horne might play the feminine lead.

Boston Symphony in Special at Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, with Serge Koussevitzky conducting, will give a special concert in the Music Shed at Tanglewood, Lenox, on Tuesday night, July 29.

Coming in the middle of the Berkshire Festival weeks but apart from the Festival itself, the concert will include Tchaikovsky's first piano concerto, with the youthful Ella Goldstein as soloist, an orchestral concerto with organ in D minor by Vivaldi, Ber-lioz' Roman Carnival overture, the third-act introduction of Lehergrin, and Beethoven's overture to Egmont.

Daphnis and Chloe second suite. This event will be called "Music for All," and will be of unprecedented character in that it is designed to show the three developments of science by which symphonic music has found a greatly extended public . . . the phonograph, the radio and motion pictures.

34 How Fate Used Southworth to Spin Its Web

By AUSTEN LAKE

PERHAPS, AS PHILOSOPHERS SAY, Fate works a web around the lives of men. Even ball players. Fate, they say, also chooses the instrument to work its will. Sooooo, there's a lively movie script in the manner by which Fate thrice appointed Billy Southworth to meddle in the fortunes of Mort Cooper and Bill Voiselle, the heavy duty pitchers whom Billy lately swapped to and from the Giants. Here's the synopsis:

TIME—Late May, 1945. Southworth is managing the St. Louis Cardinals. Cooper is his pitching ace and Voiselle is ditto for the Giants. Life seems tranquil; trouble is on holiday. Ho! ho! wait! Fate has a card trick up its sleeve!

SCENE—Boston's hotel Kenmore at 4:30 a. m. The Cardinals, all except Mort Cooper, are asleep before the opening game with the Braves, which Cooper is assigned to pitch. Action! Camera!

Ward's Fateful Hesitation

A TELEPHONE TINKLES in the room of Leo Ward, club secretary. He rises drowsily and says "Hello." Voice is Cooper's lazy drawl, "Ah'm at the airport . . . takin' the 5 o'clock back to St. Loo. Never min' why . . . jus' thought ah'd tell yuh." Cooper hangs up before Ward can reply.

Fumbling with his cobwebs Ward sits blinking dazedly on his bed. Should he wake Billy Southworth and tell the bad tidings, or should he wait till after breakfast? By the time his fog clears it's too late to head off Mort. Then Leo rings Southworth.

Billy (acidly)—That's the end! I won't keep that kind of man around. Call Mr. Bredon at 9 o'clock. Bredon (later)—Sounds like trouble Billy. What's up?

Billy (outlining the episode)—I want to get rid of him. It's a question of club discipline. Think I can deal with the Braves.

Bredon—It's your baby Billy. Do the best you can.

(Ed Note—By 11 a. m., a scant six hours after Cooper powdered, Southworth sold him to the Braves for $65,000. Repeated Southworth, "I won't have that kind of man around.")

THE SCENE CHANGES! It is June, same year, at the Polo Grounds. Bill Voiselle is pitching to Johnny Hopp of the Cardinals (remember him?)—Eighth inning, two Cards on, two out. Score: Giants 3, Cards 1. And now Voiselle has two strikes on Johnny, no balls.

(Ed note—Rigid rule of the Giants is, if a pitcher, with 2 strikes and nothing, dishes up a fat pitch, he gets fined for carelessness, up to $500.)

Now let Southworth give the dialogue, "It was not Voiselle's fault. I saw it clearly. His next pitch was plainly meant to be a waste ball, high and outside. But Johnny crossed him up, reaching out and tagging it for three bases to tie the score. We won in 11 innings."

Thus Southworth's good luck was Voiselle's calamity. For, immediately after the game, Mel Ott stamped into the clubhouse and plastered the pitcher with a $500 fine, despite Voiselle's protest: "But Hopp hit a waste pitch." "Never mind," stormed Ott, "he hit it." Thus, naturally, poisoned the pitcher's soul and 'twix he and Ott there grew a private peeve, in which Bill did a spiritual nose dive and Ott responded by keeping him on the bench.

THE SCENE CHANGES AGAIN! Now is early May, 1947, and, meanwhile, destiny has beckoned Southworth to manage the Braves. Wot-o, me lad! Here's Mort Cooper, the old vanishing man, as a Brave pitcher. But Bill, determined to let bygones be, has patiently tried for a whole year to salvage the man, realizing that he, Billy, had peddled Mort for 65 grand and owed his new owners a full money's worth.

But Mort is surly. He has an arm ache. He has a misery in his back. He won't train and grows layers of snot on his chest which impede the full arc of his throwing arm. Either he can't or won't win. So while Billy ponders, Mort broods.

In the secret recesses of both men's minds there is a mutual distrust, one saying, "He fired me" and the other "He quit." It makes a close parallel to the circumstance at New York where Voiselle nurses an internal gripe, "He fired me unfairly" and Ott pampers a personal prejudice, "He laid it in there in the clutch."

SILLY THOUGH IT SOUNDS it was Fate's mischievous plot with Billy once more its instrument. So he goes to Ott and says, "You have a pitcher you can't, or won't, use and I have one who can't, or won't, work. Let's swap. What can either of us lose?"

In this Billy was being more canny than Mel. For, having had a closeup view of the origin of both pitchers' flops, he knew that Voiselle wasn't blamable for his, while Mort Cooper WAS. Also, as a student of human behavior, he knew that Voiselle was basically sound of wind, limb and mind, while Cooper was not. So Billy's was the better bargain.

It's a bit early to tell how the trade turned out, but it looks as though the Braves got the best of it. Mort has lost 2 and won 1, glory-be to a game-saving home run by brother Walker, the surly Giant catcher. And Voiselle, slumped down and content, has won 2 and lost 2, including last night's nocturnal contest with the Cincinnati Reds. But that's not the point!

The point is that Fate's whimsy made Southworth a tool in altering the careers of both men, by crossing their paths thrice, each time to effect a sudden dislocation. Is that interesting?

Blackwell-Sain Mound Duel Set at Braves Field Tonight

By FRED HOEY

Two of the National League's outstanding pitchers will tangle in a duel at Braves field tonight when Johnny Sain, 20-game winner of a year ago, opposes Ewell Blackwell, the marvelous pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds. This is going to be a real mound battle with Sain, the underdog, standing an excellent chance of upsetting the dope.

Holmes Must Eat Vitamins; Ump Shortage

Echoes of the first game: Conditions were sweetening until the seventh inning. It was tough on the playing field especially in those closed-in dug-outs. Yet some of the boys in the grandstand complained about the lack of pep . . .

Some swell masterminding by Billy Southworth of the Braves and Johnny Neun of the Reds. Billy won the decision but Johnny forced him all the way . . . Other players are anxious to know what sort of vitamins Tommy Holmes is consuming these days. He was a riot, two home runs, a single, an intentional walk and a superlative glove-hand catch against the right field screen off Frank Lamanno in the ninth.

The Braves got a break when only Jocko Conlon showed up to umpire. This called for an umpire from each team. The Braves nominated Dick Culler and the Reds picked Bucky Walters. When Ken Raffensberger started to go sour in the seventh, the Reds had to call in Harry Gumbert. No chance of Walters to get in there . . . Mike McCormick had a couple of two singles and the winning eighth inning double which brought in the deciding runs.

It was refreshing to see and meet one of baseball's real old stars of the game—Fred Tenney—the man who revolutionized play around first base. Fred's love for the game is still intense. Although Fred is aging, he manages to make the trip to the ball park from his Winthrop home . . . It gave everybody a kick at the smart manner in which Clyde Shoun finished up.

Evening flashes: When Everett Lively uncorked a wild one that nearly conked Holmes on the head, the latter took violent exceptions to the pitch. So strong that he and Reds catcher Lamanno worked themselves into a hot argument . . . Bill Voiselle saved his own cause in most approved fashion in the third when he went into the air and speared Sain's tough boulder to retire the runner . . . Larry Goetz finally showed up to help in the umpiring. He went behind the plate and Jocko Conlon worked the bases.

During pre-game practice, Ray Mueller was in the infield reaching for a bunt when an outfield return throw hit him squarely in the face. Ray hit the sod. The boys worked over him and he was able to return to the Cincinnati dressing room under his own power . . . Frankie Baumholtz, Reds' right fielder and a crack basketball player with the Cleveland pros last season, may be prohibited from playing the hoop game next winter . . . The Braves and Cubs game next Monday afternoon will be the weekly treat for the fair sex HOEY

Night game starts at 8:45.

Nobody can discount the ability of Blackwell—he has everything. Even no-hitters are no longer a novelty to this tall boy with the baffling delivery. In the All-Star game last Tuesday he did his three-inning chore, and even American Leaguers pronounced him an exceptional pitcher. Some have gone so far as to say he's the best pitcher in the country, Bob Feller notwithstanding.

So this is the prospect facing the Braves at 8:50 tonight. The country's leading pitcher opposing a team trying to make up lost ground on the leading Brooklyn Dodgers, who swept a twin bill from the Cubs yesterday and increased their lead over the Tribe by two full games.

Blackwell has won 12 games in a row and 14 all season. This is pitching in anybody's league. Yet the Braves, despite Blackwell's no-hitter against them in his last start in Cincinnati, have a feeling they can reach him.

Johnny Sain is no touch for the Reds in tonight's game. He will be striving hard to make the fans forget his lapse in the All-Star game Tuesday, when his bad throw enabled Bobby Deerr to go to third, from where he subsequently scored on Stan Spence's single, with the winning run. Adversity's battles generally flop. About the only one in history that made good was the Joe Wood vs. Walter Johnson battle many years ago. But tonight fans are going to see baseball at its very best between one

I am trying to regain the peak and the other striving to come out of the depths.

The long day and night everybody spent yesterday might ordinarily have proved tiresome, but the two teams put on two good ball games. The Braves won the afternoon clash 6-4, and the Reds grabbed the night battle 2-1.

Bill Voiselle pitched well enough to win the usual game last night, but he was up against a kid who is bound to be heard from in lost loop. Everett Lively, son of Jack Lively, old Detroit pitcher, was on the hill for the Reds. He allowed the Braves three hits and he looks as though he had what it takes. Lively stands 6'1 and weighs 195. He is right-handed, and his service carries plenty of mystery.

Of all the young pitchers we have seen this season, this kid from Birmingham, Ala., is the best-looking to date. The kid has everything, and last night's win might give him that extra lift to carry on.

Ted Denies Changing Batting Stance Raynham

By HERB FINNEGAN

DETROIT, July 11—Ted Williams didn't like stories emanating from Chicago's All-Star game that said he had changed his batting stance—especially against Harry Brecheen, his World Series nemesis. He said so today before the Red Sox and Tigers tangled in a twin bill at Briggs Stadium. He said, "So, why should I change my batting stance? I have two more years in the game, I'll chuck it all, grab my fishing lines and call it a career. Those stories drive me nuts."

This isn't the first time this season that Williams has talked retirement. He said the same thing in Washington on the Sox last visit there. Barnyard hoots of the fans gail him, and, except for his more pleasant moments, so do reporters. He forgets that those reporters provide the publicity that enables him to make $75,000 a year.

Stories from the All-Star game said he was back farther from the plate than usual against Brecheen. They made sense because Brecheen stymied him by pitching him on the fists on the World Series, and Williams usually hits a pitcher better the longer he knows him.

He studies their every little mannerism in windup, motion and delivery. That is what put him at the head of his class, until last year (342) when Mickey Vernon (334) led him and this year (308) when he finds himself pursuing Boudreau, Joe DiMaggio, Kell, McQuinn and company. It is quite possible he was piqued because the writing gentry watch him so closely that they are giving away his trade secrets. Even Detroit and Red Sox strategists say he was back farther from the plate than usual against Brecheen.

However, there was no noticeable change in his batting stance in the twilight game against Detroit's Hal Newhouse except for a mobile front foot. He stood his usual foot away from the line so that his plate coverage would be complete. He was walked twice, singled between Mayo and Lake who were playing on the right side of the infield and grounded to Mayo.

Will he quit in two years? It is extremely doubtful, serious as he is about it, few men are tossing $75,000 jobs out the window when they have no other job to fall back on. And you can bet the Yawkeys, Crosins, Chandlers and Hartridges would be exerting every ounce of pressure to have him stay in uniform. The public likes their Ruths and Williamses.

Baseball needs them because they pack the stands, whether to hoot them or to cheer their home runs. Yet Williams often dreams of an entire summer to himself, so that he could start fishing in Mexico in February, come north with the schools of big fish, try the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, deep sea fishing and tour most of the seven seas, winding up in the south sea islands. He is forever adding to his piscatorial equipment, picking up new rods and reels in every city. It is a fetish with him.

He was always pretty fast with a dollar, however, and since he missed three complete seasons while in the service it is doubtful if he could save enough in four seasons of post-war baseball to retire forever. Income taxes being what they are.

Maybe if he comes with a rush at the bat as he did in '39, his first year in the majors, he will forget all about retiring. In '39, he was batting .287 at the halfway mark and finished at .327. If he does that well this season he'll be among the league leaders because he himself says not a player in the league will hit .350 this season. That was his goal last spring. Later he changed it to .340, and now what with his 94 walks and the Boudreau shift at it is likely he would settle for .325.

Baseball is a great game when you're hitting .406 or .354, not quite so good when you're down to .308 with everybody expecting you to be 40 points higher.

RAYNHAM PARK, July 11 — Russ Murray and his associates in the Massachusetts Greyhound Association look forward to a banner turnout of greyhound fans for the opening session of the eighth annual meeting of the organization tonight.

In the feature race, Flashy Sir will be forced to extend himself to overcome the band that Racing Secretary Leo Hartwell has pitted against him in the Raynham inaugural.

There are some who look for Bob Bell and Rebel Secret to furnish the chief competition, but many of the experts prefer Miss Ward as the one to provide the fireworks. Then, too, Chen Yu, which bested Flashy Sir at Dighton, may get the nod. Kimrock Rebel and Never Blue cannot be entirely overlooked and Quick Victory, the other starter, will be hard to beat if he breaks fast.

Dente Dazzles in Debut; Tex, Denny Hurl Today

DETROIT, July 11—Lion of the hour is Sam Dente, rookie third baseman just up from Louisville. He walked into Briggs Stadium which he had never seen before, was the only Sox to make two hits and played a smart game as field as the Sox and Tigers battled to a 2-2 draw (eight innings) in the gloaming.

Dente has plenty of moxie and ability. He was hit in the eye by a batted ball two weeks ago, yet challenged Kell's terrific smash in the second which almost decapitated him. He was hit in the head by Jack Hark left last week, showed no traces of being gun-shy against Newhouse. He made back-to-the-infield catches of foul flies from the bats of Wagner and Lake. He made a nice shortstop stop of Lake's bouncer in the first inning. He's a line drive, not a home run hitter. He didn't have a home run this season. But he can hit triples and doubles, and his power seems to be to right center.

Sox were burned up when ump called the game after the Tigers hit in the eighth. The ump was justified all right because it was dark, very dark. The Sox were sore because Detroit didn't start the game until 5:30 on a day that was cloudy all the while. Means one more double-header on their next western trip. The tie was hard for Ferriss to take. He gave only three hits in the eight frames. Tigers scored in the second on Kell's single and Mayo's long double to right center. In the fourth without a hit after Ferriss passed Wakefield and Kell. He passed six altogether, one intentionally.

Trout (7-5) and Southpaw Overmire (3-3) were matched with Tex Hughson (5-7) and Denny Galehouse (4-3) today. Thus Dobson gets an extra day to rest his aching jaw. The twilight game was Wakefield's first at home since he injured his ankle a month ago. He did play in St. Louis last Sunday, however. Rip Russell is working out at first base every day—just in case Jones doesn't hit better on this trip than he did on the last. Johnny Orlando is very proud of his All-Star wristwatch. He's the first clubhouse custodian in A. L. history (to be so honored, and when Williams asked to buy it, Johnny said "Nothing doing. This is something for all the future Orlando to gaze upon with rapture."

Eddie McGah is due to join the Sox this evening. The speedy catcher hit only .240 for Louisville but Little Rock manager, Bill Dickey, and New Orleans manager, Fred Walters, were wild about him last spring as the Sox loured the South. Both are catchers and should recognize a prospect.

But Louisville's Nemo Liebold didn't share their enthusiasm. The youngster's future depends on his work at the plate, not behind it. He hit seven home runs for the Colonels. He hits 'em long, but not consistently. He's a fine receiver, can throw, and has the usual Tex batting swing.

BASEBALL GAMES WANTED

The Broadway Independents, hardball and softball teams, ranging in age from 19 to 30, would like to arrange games at home or away. Managers may contact Lenny Aronson, at South Boston 6172 or 4323 between 9-5.

Don Black, who was "all washed up" a year ago, has eclipsed his famous Cleveland teammate Bobby Feller by pitching the first no-hitter of the American League season. Not as gaudy as Ewell Blackwell's no-hit game against Boston June 18 which he followed with a near no-hitter against Brooklyn four days later, Black's effort was a little spottier in the early stages. He walked the first two men he faced and leaned heavily on his mates' fielding en route to his dazzling success against his old Philadelphia mates. Even the elements and a hedge podge twilight-night lighting scheme served to add color to the amazing comeback of the fellow they used to call "Mack's bad boy" when he was pitching and losing for the A's.

Rain halted the scheduled twilight game in the second inning for 45 minutes and the management turned on the lights for the final six innings in a weird setting, typical of Black's back-ground.

When Black pitched for the A's, it was a standing joke around the circuit to say, "Here comes another 'Black-Berry'." For every time Black started, little "Jittery Joe" Berry would be called from the bullpen to relieve him before the seventh inning was over.

Acquired by the Tribe via the waiver route after the 1945 season, Black failed to make good in Cleveland and was shut out of the majors in mid-July.

His comeback has been remarkable. For the first time he has pitched the kind of ball that his natural ability would indicate he should. Winner of seven and loser of five, he is topped only by Feller's 11 wins on the Tribe staff.

Gordon's overhand running catch of an Elmer Valo pop fly in right field in the third inning was the fielding gem that saved the day. Black, who had thrown two no-hitters for Petersburg, Va., in the Class D Virginia League in 1942, helped set up his 3-0 margin, pushing home one run with a squeeze bunt.

Feller, whose aching back forced him to miss the All-Star game, racked up his 11th victory in the 2-1 second game but he required help from Ed Klieban in the ninth to save the edge given him by Hank Edwards' two-run homer.

Black wasn't the only pitcher to hit the headlines yesterday, which was a banner day for the hurlers. Lefty Faye, the Yankees' relief ace, added a new twist to his specialty and batted a ninth-inning home run that sunk the Browns, 4-3. Spud Chandler, whose sore elbow forced him to pass up the starting assignment in the All-Star game Tuesday, was off form. He was knocked out in the seventh, the first time he had failed to finish since opening day against the A's, snapping a streak of 19 complete games.

Page's homer stretched the Yanks' win streak to nine and boosted their lead 8 1/2 games over Detroit and Boston, who played a 2-2 tie game, called at the end of the eighth when the twilight became darkness.

Washington took both ends of a double-header from Chicago, 4-0, behind Early Wynn who registered his 10th win, and 7-2 behind Ray Scarborough. The White Sox collected 10 hits in each losing game.

Court Refuses To Free Tilden

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP) - William (Big Bill) Tilden, one-time monarch of the tennis world, still had three months to go today on a nine-month jail sentence for a morals offense.

Superior Judge A. A. Scott, for the second time, turned down Tilden's plea for modification of the sentence with the blunt observation: "This man can't be free... If the doctors can't cure him he should be put in a State hospital and kept there for the rest of his life."

Dr. Edward R. Miller, psychiatrist, told the court that the champion's "neurosis and impulsiveness" might be cured in "from nine months to three years."

Judge Scott turned down two requests of Tilden's attorney, one that the net star be released to the care of a physician and another that he be placed in a rest home. However, the judge indicated he might consider the rest home suggestion later.

Tilden was convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old boy last winter.

Senators Sell Newsom to Yankees

WASHINGTON, July 11 (INS).—Louis "Bobo" Newsom, colorful veteran of both big leagues, today was sold by the Washington Senators to the New York Yankees.

It was reported Newsom went from the seventh-place Nats to the first-place Yankees at the waiver price of $10,000.

Newsom, who has been on the roster of five or six American League teams and also pitched in the National has won four and lost five games for Washington this year.

Newsom has had a "bad luck" season with the Washington club, most of his losses resulting from poor support and weak hitting on the part of his teammates.

On several occasions he has expressed dissatisfaction, and after last Sunday's game in Boston, where a poor throw by outfielder Stan Sease allowed the Red Sox to score, Bob stalked into the clubhouse and ripped off his shirt in disgust.

As buttons sprayed the locker room, Newsom roared:

"That was the worst throw I ever saw in big league baseball."

Newsom was chosen to pitch the opening game of the season, with President Truman on hand to watch him, but the Yankees got to him early in the game and drove him to the showers. The Yankees won the opener, 7-3.

However, the big fellow through the years has been particularly effective against the New Yorkers and his appearance in a Yankee uniform is regarded as added insurance for Bucky Harris' club in the American League pennant race.

Not since the days of Walter Johnson has Clark Griffith had a pitcher with such boxoffice magnetism as Newsom. When word was passed that "Ol' Bobo" was to be on the mound, the fans could be counted on to turn out in droves.

But from the start of the 1947 season it seemed evident that Newsom just wasn't destined to have a good year with the Nats.

YAWKEY SAYS CRONIN BOSS FOR THIS YEAR

By HERB FINNEGAN

DETROIT, July 11.—Tom Yawkey called Boston's baseball reporters together before today's Red Sox-Tigers double-header and spiked, for the time being at least, the story that Birdie Tebbetts would be the next manager of the Red Sox.

"Cronin is still the manager," said Yawkey, "and he will be until the end of the season. After that what transpires is my business. I own the ball club, and I'll do the appointing."

It was to be noted, however, that Yawkey didn't say there wouldn't be another manager next year. That seems to be the accepted belief because not only is General Manager Eddie Collins ill but Joe Cronin is anxious to spend more time at home and pay attention to his growing children.

Yawkey called the meeting more to save embarrassment between Tebbetts and Cronin than anything else.

"Every time I pick up the paper," Tebbetts said to Yawkey, "I read where Tebbetts is going to manage the Red Sox. That puts me in a swell spot, doesn't it? I've told Joe and everybody else that I'm here just to catch."

"After all, Joe brought me here, and I'm glad to be here. I'm not ingratitude enough to seek somebody's scalp who's doing me a favor."

There is no denying that this is Cronin's last year. His health is poor and he's not physically capable of handling his onerous duties. There is no denying that Cronin will move into the front office because, as Yawkey so often has stated:

"This is Cronin's club. He can do whatever he wants with it, with my permission of course."

Good guess is that Steve O'Neill, not Joe McCarthy nor Tebbetts, will manage the Sox in '48. Steve was vehement in his denial today that he has any aspiration toward the job, but he was Cronin's No. 1 coach in the All-Star game over Manager-of-the-year Bucky Harris.

Dizzy Trout and Tex Hughson were mound opponents today in the first game of the Red Sox-Detroit doubleheader. Wally Moses was in right field in place of Sam Mele.
